

A detailed cross-sectional diagram of a multi-layer printed circuit board (PCB). The diagram shows several layers of copper foil (represented by hatched patterns) separated by layers of prepreg (represented by solid black areas). The board is shown with a core or prepreg base. Various internal features like vias and through-hole connections are visible, showing the internal structure of the board.